

AN AMERICAN STUDENT'S PRAYER
(By Kelly Coghlan)

“In God We Trust” is printed on every U.S. coin and dollar bill—and today, Lord, we likewise acknowledge that we not only believe in you God, but we trust you. We trust you with our lives, with the lives of those we love, and with our futures.

The truth that we are “One Nation under God” is affirmed in the Pledge of Allegiance and recited in every public school—and today, Lord, we likewise acknowledge that you are above all and that we are answerable to you individually and as a Nation.

And as the Supreme Court and every other federal court in America open each day with the prayerful plea, “God, save the United States and this Honorable Court”—we likewise pray that you save the United States and our public schools.

In light of these often repeated truths for which this Country stands, we acknowledge you as our God, and ask your blessing, guidance, and protection on our schools, our friends, our families, and on this Nation.

God,.....bless America. In Jesus' name, Amen.
